

ABSTRACT

A system, method and computer program product for intellectual property budget management. Initially, a plurality of intellectual property assets and a status of the intellectual property assets are identified. A projected cost for maintaining the intellectual property assets over a predetermined time period is then calculated based on the status thereof.
